THE U.S. PRIVATE SECTOR JOB QUALITY INDEX (JQI)® June 2023

Following the release of the Employment Situation Report for June 2023 by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), the U.S. Private Sector Job Quality Index (JQI)® has been revised to a level of 85.22, down by -0.30% from its revised level one month earlier and reflecting a higher proportion relative to the prior month - of U.S. production and non-supervisory (P&NS) jobs paying less than the mean weekly income of all P&NS jobs ("Low Quality Jobs"), relative to those jobs paying above such mean. With this latest report from the BLS, the impact of the COVID19 global pandemic can be deemed to have almost fully abated, although the dramatic growth in wages necessary to attract workers back to employment and the lasting changes in labor force participation will continue to have an impact on the JQI relative to pre-pandemic periods. Accordingly, the JQI may rise or fall more sharply for a period of time to the extent that changes in labor force composition, as offset by the significantly higher benchmark mean weekly income levels compared to pre-pandemic levels, impact the index. The JQI is 3-month average of the monthly ratios of high, versus low-paid workers, and that smoothing process is reflected in its value.

The mean weekly wage income of all P&NS jobs as of the current reading (which reflects the level as of June 2023) increased to $977.74, a change of +0.57% from its revised level the month prior. The JQ-Instant™ preliminary read of the 187,000 gain in all private sector, non-farm payrolls for July 2023 shows that 27.90% of such gain in private sector jobs were in industry sectors offering P&NS jobs with an average weekly income below the mean weekly income of all P&NS jobs (i.e. Low Quality Jobs).

The news is again mixed: The economy continued to add jobs. However, the pace has cooled. The average private, non-farm, non-supervisory weekly wage growth reflected in the June data (+0.57%) reverted to a smaller +0.12% June-to-July change in average wage reported today. We, therefore, continue to see little evidence of wage growth inflation. Even if hourly wages increase, such increases appear to be temperated by declines in the number of hours worked, resulting in small changes in the weekly wages.

There is also little evidence that the jobs added signal a hot economy. The jobs added come primarily from Services (+154,000). The Information sector – the hope for an economy powered by AI – lost 12,000 jobs (despite the subsector of Computing Infrastructure gaining 3,900). Perhaps telling of how much hiring cooled is the loss of 36,400 jobs in the Administrative and Support Services.

With no signs of wage inflation, a lackluster number of jobs added, and even lower-paying sectors losing jobs, it appears that high inflation should not be of immediate concern.

Chart 2: JQI Instant™ for 12 months ending

This news release presents data from the most recent JQI and JQI-Instant readings calculated through the month immediately prior to the month of this release date. The JQI assesses job quality in the United States by measuring desirable higher-wage/higher-hour jobs versus lower-wage/lower-hour jobs. The JQI offers a near-real time analytical tool to policymakers, researchers and financial market participants with relevance to a variety of trends in the economy at large. While economists and international organizations have developed other, complementary conceptions of job quality such as those addressing the emotional satisfaction employees derive from their jobs, the JQI interprets "job quality" as meaning the weekly dollar-income a job generates for an employee.

The JQI analyzes a representative sample of the economy using production and non-supervisory job (P&NS) data from 180 different industry groups spanning across all 20 supersectors into which the BLS groups establishments. The principal data utilized is contained in the Current Employment Survey (CES, also often referred to as the establishment survey) P&NS data on average weekly hours (AWH), average hourly wage (AHW) and total employment for each given industry group (seasonally adjusted, in all cases). The JQI is updated on a monthly basis contemporaneously with the release of new CES data from the BLS.

The JQI establishes a Quality Job Benchmark for each given month. The benchmark value is indicated by the average weighted weekly wage within the set of 180 industry groups, and weighted for the number of jobs in each group. Once the benchmark is established for that given month, each industry group is sorted into low or high quality by comparing each group's specific weekly wage to the quality benchmark. If an industry's weekly wage for the month is below (above) the benchmark, then it is considered low (high)-quality job.

Once the data are sorted, the total number of high-quality jobs is divided by the total number of low-quality jobs for that given month. This ratio represents the preliminary JQI value. An index reading of 100 would indicate an even distribution. Readings below 100 indicate a greater concentration in/prevalence of lower-quality (those below the mean) positions, and a reading above 100 indicates greater concentration/prevalence of higher-quality positions. It should be noted that the total number of "jobs" is represented by the total number of positions, as opposed to workers, for that given industry group.

The Preliminary JQI measure is then further adjusted in the case of certain industries that (i) support a significantly large number of jobs, relative to other industry groups that are used in computing the JQI, and (ii) generate weekly wages at or near the quality benchmark and contain a sufficient number of jobs such that minor movements in weekly wages would have the effect of moving them from one side of the quality benchmark to the other from month to month, thereby resulting in unintended statistical fluctuations that can be remedied by further sectoral subdivision.

To address such larger groups of employees, the \mathbf{JQI} parameterizes a flip category as an industry that contains more than a million employees and has an average weekly wage that typically falls within +/- 10% of the Job Quality Benchmark for a time span of ten or more years. Flip category industries are separated into subcategories below which further subcategory analysis would render little-to-no material difference in internal composition of high income to lower income jobs, with the outcome of the flip category adjustments being the elimination of large and distortive groups suddenly moving from one side of the Job Quality Benchmark mean to the other during the life of the index (although the sub-categories may exhibit such moves). Industries that satisfy this parameter for the inception date of the JQI to date are listed below:

Flip Category P&NS Employees (December 2018)
Education 3,197,100
Offices of Physicians 2,202,000
Depository Credit Intermediation 1,277,600
Food Manufacturing 1,276,300

In the aggregate, these four categories comprised just over 7.5% of all private sector P&NS jobs in the U.S., as of December 2018.

The above sectors are subdivided using data provided by the annual Occupational Employment Statistics (OES) survey, which is released by the BLS annually in late March or early April. The OES provides a more detailed breakdown of the wages for each occupation in each industry group. To maintain consistency, OES occupations in the foregoing flip categories that involve supervisory roles are not included. Information from the OES is applied to assess how many jobs within each flip industry are high- or low-quality occupations from the standpoint of weekly income and thereby split the larger industry category into subcategories. For this analysis, the OES data is filtered to only include major occupations within each industry; usually, this includes up to 24 different occupations.

Weekly wages derived from the OES are then compared to the weekly wage benchmarks used in the preliminary JQI index. The occupations are then assigned a quality of high or low depending on whether they are above or below the benchmark.

Following the foregoing adjustments, the total number of high-quality jobs are divided by the total number of jobs for each category. This results in the percentage of high-quality jobs (and, correspondingly, low-quality jobs) for each of the flip categories. The relative percentage of high-quality/low-quality jobs is now used to normalize and adjust each flip category, by multiplying the percentage of high-quality/low-quality jobs by the CES employment count so that each flip category industry is split into two groups, which are then independently used in the overall JQI calculation.

Because the OES data is released annually, the intra-year percentage divisions of the flip category industry groups are adjusted annually, as well. Such adjustments are calculated to commence with JQI data released beginning in May of each year, through to the following April.

Finally, it should be noted that certain industry subgroup data lags data for larger categories by one month because of BLS data release schedules. Furthermore, while the raw JQI is otherwise statistically consistent from month to month, even the adjustments heretofore mentioned do not remove all distracting statistical noise in movements of the index from month to month. The JQI is more useful to other analysis and forecasting when observed on the basis of a three-month moving average, and the headline JQI index is reported as such.

For a full description of the calculation of the JQI, please see: the November 2019 white paper introducing the U.S. Private Sector Job Quality Index.

The JQ-Instant is a snapshot index that results from the subdivision of the change in the CES calculation of all private sector jobs (not just P&NS jobs) for the subject month into high-quality and low-quality jobs, utilizing the JQI sectoral divisions for P&NS jobs. Thus, if a marginal job is created or lost in a sector that the JQI classifies as high-quality, all private sector jobs created or lost in the subject month are considered high-quality for the purposes of the JQ-Instant calculation – the reverse being the case for low-quality jobs. JQ-Instant readings are revised in subsequent months commensurate with revisions to the CES data by the BLS.

The JQ-Instant calculation utilizes 123 sectoral categories, in contrast to the 172 used in the JQI itself, because of a one month delay in the BLS reporting of more granular data. Because JQ-Instant inherently assumes that all industry categories and subcategories that are on one side or another of the Quality Job Benchmark for purposes of the JQI (which analyzes only P&NS jobs) are also on the same side when considering all jobs (i.e. P&NS as well as managerial/ supervisory jobs), there may occasionally be certain industry categories that may flip from one quality designation to the other when all jobs are considered, making the JQ-Instant reading somewhat inaccurate. In general, however, industries offering high or low quality P&NS jobs (82.5% of all jobs) are generally in the same category when all jobs are considered, making the JQ-Instant reading a useful tool for a snapshot analysis of the job quality of the subject month's level of total private sector jobs gained or lost.

Finally, the JQ-Instant reading has implications for the likely direction of the JQI itself in future months. As the JQI is reported as a three-month rolling average of actual monthly readings, significant imbalances (readings varying from an even distribution between high and low quality jobs) in the JQ-Instant results would suggest future JQI readings moving in the direction of the dominant side of such distribution.

JQ-Instant is reported on a scale of +100 to -100, reflecting the relative proportion of low quality jobs. Positive readings indicate overall net month over month gains in all U.S. private sector jobs. Negative readings indicate overall net month over month losses in all U.S. private sector jobs. A reading of +100 would indicate that all jobs gained in the subject month are low quality jobs. A reading of -100 would indicate that all jobs lost in the subject month are low quality jobs. A JQ-Instant reading of +50 would indicate that 50% of the overall jobs gained in the subject month are low quality jobs, and a reading of -50 would indicate that 50% of the overall jobs lost in the subject month are low quality jobs, and so forth.
